

4.2 Genre

Conventions of TV Crime drama

4.5 Key Terminology

4.3 Representations

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

- Luther's long overcoat and Alice's pale skin and red lips link to the noir style, as well as the use of red and black shadow in the title sequence

- Low-key lighting, intense non-diegetic music, dramatic cross-cutting all link to the thriller genre

- Graphic shots of blood (the dog at Alice's parent's house) and jump scares (Alice grabbing Zoe outside the offices) are all conventional of horror

- There are clear elements of the Police procedural, but there is an increased focus on psychology suggesting links to the more complex narratives in more contemporary TV crime drama.

Media Language - Opening Chase

- Establishing, low angle shot
- gritty industrial setting links to conventional areas for crimes to take place or criminals to hide. Low angle foreshadows the height from which Madsen will fall later in the scene.

- Tracking shots - tracking Luther chasing and closing in on Madsen, creating a sense of urgency and suspense.

- High and low angle shots - used throughout to show dominance of Luther and emphasise the danger. Madsen is in and risk Luther is taking.

- Cross Cutting - the crime scene and the chase showing they are happening simultaneously and there is a race against time.

- Fast paced dramatic music - The low drones and building crescendos enhance the feeling of time running out for the audience.

Media Language - Meeting Alice Morgan

- Setting - Alice's family home is realistic and conventional of an older couple's home.

- Body Language + Facial Expression - Alice's hunched over position and traumatised face as she calls the police suggest she is in distress. She waits for the police to rescue her suggesting at the start that she is a 'damsel in distress'

- Performance - Alice's voice is shaky and she uses words such as 'please help' through her sobs and shocked behaviour - she seems genuinely terrified which tricks the audience into thinking she is vulnerable and genuinely upset.

4.5 Key Terminology

Eponymous
(of a person) giving their name to something.

Critical Acclaim
to be looked upon very favourably by the Critics of any given industry

Codes and Conventions
The expected elements that will be included in products from particular media forms and genres

Hybrid
a genre that blends themes and elements from two or more different genres.

Film Noir
a genre that emerged in the 1940s/50s where narrative focused on crime and stylish visual conventions such as low-key dark lighting and characters such as the world weary detective and the femme fatale

GENDER
Masculinity is represented in a complex way - conforming to and challenging male stereotypes

• Luther is an aggressive alpha male but is vulnerable through his psychological instability

• Justin is openly in awe of Luther and is not afraid to admit it

• Mark is gentle and represented as a 'sensitive contrast' to Luther.

Stereotypical femininity is challenged throughout in female characters but in different ways

• Alice subverts expectation as an unemotional, intelligent, manipulative and violent villain - usually a male role in crime drama

• Rose Teller is powerful authority figure in command of a group of male police officers

• Zoe is by far the most typically feminine (vulnerable, weak, lead by love) but is also a very successful humanitarian lawyer

CRIME AND THE POLICE

• Crime is represented as dark and sinister - Luther is seen as a vigilante. Breaking rules and stopping at nothing to stop criminals.

1.4 Theoretical Approaches

Hero = John Luther - troubled but brilliant detective; a rule breaker who will do anything to bring criminals to justice.

Helper = Justin Ripley, faithful sidekick who manipulative and obsessed with Luther Dispatcher = Rose Teller - Luther's boss, keeps him focused through her tough but fair approach. She sees Luther's brilliance and is prepared to put her job on the line for him.

Donor = Ripley and Benny both provide Luther with the means to achieve his goals.

4.3 Representations

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A mysterious and dangerous female character who uses her sexuality to exert power over male characters

Procedural
a subgenre that focuses specifically on how the police solve crimes

Foreshadowing
Be a warning or indication of a future event in the narrative

Establishing Shot
sets up the context for the scene ahead, designed to inform the audience where the action will be taking place

Tracking Shots
any shot where the camera follows backward, forward or moves alongside the subject being recorded.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Cross cutting
to establish action occurring at the same time

Contemporary
belonging to or occurring in the present time

Alpha Male
a man tending to assume a dominant or domineering role in social or professional situations.

Vigilante
someone who undertakes law enforcement into their own hands because other methods are thought to be inadequate.

4.5 Key Terminology

ETHNICITY

Luther is a contemporary and diverse drama reflecting the modern London that exists today.

• John Luther challenges stereotypical representations of black men in crime drama which is typically negative and portrays them as the criminals.

• Zoe (Luther's wife) is a further positive representation of people of colour in that she is a well educated and highly successful mixed race woman.

GENDER
A